

National Citizens Coalition Reacts to Federal Budget

At a time when Canadians are more concerned with being able to afford their homes, rather than renovating them, this budget has missed the mark.

There is nothing in this budget that indicates that this government is taking the necessary steps to cut excessive spending. This budget estimates $85 billion in increased deficits over the next five years which will take generations to pay off.

We were hoping for some signs of fiscal conservatism to exist in Ottawa. Unfortunately we were disappointed. Canadian companies have been making difficult employment and spending reductions and we were hoping to see similar efforts made by the federal government.

We encourage all members of Parliament to work towards cutting wasteful government spending and pass those savings on by providing meaningful tax cuts to hard working Canadians.

The National Citizens Coalition is Canada's largest organization that stands for the defence and promotion of free enterprise, free speech and government that is accountable to taxpayers. Founded in 1967, the NCC continues to fight for more freedom through less government. For more information about the NCC visit us on line at www.nationalcitizens.ca
